NETRECRUITER

SOURCERER'S APPRENTICE
Cutting Edge Tools for the Internet Recruiter

Circulation: a big number between 100 and 1,000,000

HELLO FROM YOUR EDITMASTER

Earlier this week I was in Dallas and had the pleasure of speaking to the Independent Recruiters Group on my favorite topic of Cutting Edge Tools for the Internet Recruiter. Anxious to return home and complete final preparations on this May issue, I opted to explore a new software package that I accidentally stumbled upon while researching additional download sites for the online email extractor called WebSnake. The wonderful part about writing this newsletter is all the fun toys one discovers, mostly by accident. This issue will attempt to enlighten you about what caught my eye and hopefully will improve your overall recruiting efforts.

For those of you descending on Orlando this weekend for Computerworld's annual conference, come by and say hello. I'll be the one slumping down liquid protein shakes twice a day and passing up all that marvelous food. This month has been quite hectic, with almost half either on the road or in training. This was also coupled with the final ratification of a contract on our new home and the sale of our existing house. I think what hair I had on my already shiny top has permanently gone south.

Should any of you who read this newsletter have suggestions for its improvement, or articles, sites, or software that you feel would be of benefit to the recruiting/HR community, please send them this way.

FEATURED TOOL OF THE MONTH

BlackWidow, v 4.07, is a web site scanner, a site mapping tool, a site ripper, a site mirroring tool, and an offline browser program. Use it to scan a site and create a complete profile of the site's structure, files, E-mail addresses, external links and even link errors. Then use it to download the site, with its structure and files intact, to use as a site mirror or to be converted by this application into a locally linked site for offline browsing and long-term reference. Or use it to scan for and download any selection of files: from 'JPG' to 'CGI' to 'HTML' to MIME types, from small to large files, in part of a site or in a group of sites. These pre-scan filtering options can save you countless on-line hours of searching and sorting. This application will scan HTTP sites, SSL sites (HTTPS) and FTP sites. You can download BlackWidow for a free-trial.

SITES

AltaVista's Raging Search

Searching the Web and expecting high relevance can be an exercise in frustration, which is why I always welcome new search engines. This new Google-like search engine from AltaVista called Raging is fast and effective. You can fit out the sleek and powerful page with the options you prefer, including an available "family filter", number of results per page, and language.
<http://www.raging.com/>

Smart Web Searching

WebBrain is both searchable and browseable, providing you a visual map of the Web. You don't have to know what you're looking for. You can simply dive right in, click through categories and discover worlds of web sites on topics of interest to you. This search engine lets you see related areas of interest and stuff that you never knew existed. You can do specific searches too!
http://www.webbrain.com/open_NS.html

Metabrowsing the Search Engines

Metabrowsing stitches together information from multiple Web sites and presents it as one source. A great example is Quickbrowse, a search-engine portal that combines information from Yahoo, AltaVista, Deja.com, Google, WebCrawler, MetaCrawler, and NewsIndex into one page of bookmarkable search results. We searched Quickbrowse for "technology stocks" at Google and got 20 pages of results organized as one continuous page. You can bet major search engines will pay attention to this nifty, Perl-based tool. The home page consists of one textbox, two pull-down lists, and a button.

1,000,001 Free Home Pages to Place Your Job Listings

Once upon a time free home pages were sophisticated enough to handle baby pictures, a few flashy graphics and minimal authoring tools. Not anymore. Do-it-yourself services have come a long way-though some have come a longer way than others. New features include counters, chat rooms, message boards, background music, and even games and streaming video. Some services offer prewritten CGI and JavaScript programs that you can cut and paste into your own pages; others provide e-commerce features that let you sell items directly from your site. And most will give more than 10 megabytes of space to load up on graphics and sound.

Hold Your Meetings Over the Web for Free

Meetings are the ties that bind business. Today, widely dispersed participants can meet without spending a fortune getting together. MyPlaceWare.com, a no-cost e-meeting service, lets you host meetings of up to five people on the Web, using nothing more complicated than a Java-enabled browser.

SOFTWARE

A Great Metasearch Engine Gets Better

<http://www.netrecruiter.net/sa/2000/may/sa0500.html>

Copernic 2000 v4.5 allows you to search by asking questions in plain English. For example, you can ask "Who was Copernicus?" and get the results expected. Another exciting feature is that you can personalize the look and feel of your Copernic using "skins"! <http://www.copernic.com>

Make Contact on the Web

Contact Networks is a hybrid software application/service that uses the Web to solve on of the chief problems with personal information managers and contact managers; information quickly gets out of date as people switch jobs or move. As your contacts update their personal information, the changes are automatically synchronized with your local address book. <http://www.contact.com>

Digital Shredder

Here is a neat tool to safeguard your intellectual property. Remember what happens after the message is delivered in Mission Impossible? <http://www.1on1mail.com>

SHAREWARE

@Spider is a powerful and easy to use e-mail address extractor available for Windows 95/98. Using it you can easily get email addresses from web sites, Usenet newsgroups and files located on your local or network drives. With @Spider you can easily and quickly get target lists of email addresses for use in marketing and advertising campaigns. @Spider is an excellent choice for anyone who needs to effectively promote their web site or products. Its simple interface will get you productive immediately. <http://netrecruiter.net/irs/publicsoftware/atspider.zip>

MakeExtract is an E-mail list building program. Select any folder, and it scans through each file in the folder looking for E-mail addresses. Lists are stored in a 1-per-line text format with your choice of delimiter. You can create and merge lists, and use any list as a filter. You can use multiple lists as filters, and the addresses that pass the filter(s) are written to one or more text files. The program is highly customizable, and comes with easy-to-follow documentation. The simple point-and-click interface is very easy to get used to. Lists can contain up to 100,000 E-mail addresses. Free tech support is provided via the vendor's WWW message board.

<http://netrecruiter.net/irs/publicsoftware/MakSetup.exe>

NewsMail Collector is an Automated Application that selectively retrieves email addresses from newsgroups. It includes a flexible filtering system to weed out unwanted addresses. Features including verifying hostnames, scans for duplicate addresses, global or newsgroup specific duplicate monitoring, re-formatting of email addresses, honors NO SPAM and more. Addresses are saved in a plaintext file with each email address on a single line. Shareware version will only save 50 addresses.

<http://netrecruiter.net/irs/publicsoftware/nmc20.zip>

EMailing List Pro is a program for creating and managing lists of contacts (large or small), and then sending identical E-mails out to all the people on the contact list. Includes many useful features, such as sort, search, select, etc. EMailings List Pro can save contact lists to files, and export and import Text and CSV files. It has many options for filtering contacts, e.g. prevent duplicates being added, and prevent contacts with invalid email addresses being added. EMailings List Pro also has options to customize the main list view to make the contacts easier to distinguish. It also has support for HTML format emails and attachments, and simple schedule support. <http://netrecruiter.net/irs/publicsoftware/emlpro.exe>

Web Mole 2000 extracts highly qualified e-mail addresses from web sites. It is fundamentally different to a spamming tool as all emails collected are highly targeted and aimed at a specific market.

Clean up your emailing lists with E-Validator. It connects directly to SMTP servers and validates each address without actually sending anything to potential recipients. You can add email addresses manually or import from dBase or CSV (comma-separated value) text files. Once the list is loaded, E-Validator uses multithreading. <http://netrecruiter.net/irs/publicsoftware/eval110.exe>

SEARCH TIP OF THE MONTH

Often I'm asked how I developed those advanced search formulas for finding resumes. The answer is surprisingly simple - I read the search engine help page to determine what elements could maximize my search. Here is a neat tool that highlights four command operators that can be used to identify a subject. In my example, I chose the word "resume".

ODDS & ENDS

I Know I Put It Here Somewhere

Do you remember when your company first started its web site? It was just a few manageable pages. Now, it takes either a major search engine or a guided tour by the resident webmaster to find your way through the myriad of information. Like any publication, your site needs an index. But indexing is a task from hell-and even if you do it at the outset, revising the index as your site grows is something you'll probably keep moving to the end of your to-do list. To make this daunting task automatic try the free Index Generator.

TIPS FROM THE EXPERTS

There are so many terrific ideas and experts out there offering a ton of information for the Internet recruiter. Knowing how to get it or get it sent to you is the challenge. In the ensuing issues of this newsletter, I will attempt to showcase these recruiting "gurus" each month by identifying where they publish and the article(s) or information they offer.

RISE Entrepreneurial Twist - Issue 29 -

Excellent advice on establishing relationships and networking on newsgroups
 by Barbara Ling
<http://www.riseway.com>

- 1) Read the newsgroup charters before posting
- 2) Contact mailing list owners (not the list itself!) to introduce yourself and your services
- 3) Sponsor your local user group meetings
- 4) Offer free advice
- 5) Disclose all the information you can. Candidates talk, candidates email, candidates have a pretty good idea of their worth already. Most likely, especially in the technical fields, they know what their peers are getting.
- 6) Showcase on your web site just why candidates like working with you. Do you have repeat referrals? Do you provide relocation information so they don't have to hunt around for it? Do you explain how you differ from your competitors?

ADVERTISERS

Invariably, when a subscription base reaches a certain level, many vendors arrive at your doorstep offering their wares. At first, I attempted to evaluate all these. But eventually it became almost a full-time effort to test or pilot and then draft up the results. Hence, now you will see a list of many new players or folks who have enhanced their existing product or service and have asked for some additional exposure. These are all the firms that asked me to showcase their wares since the beginning of April. This is for your information only. I do not support or represent any of these firms.
